

A Cookie is a small file of letters and numbers stored on your computer's hard drive.

Professor Andrew Eder's website uses just one Analytical Cookie which allows us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around the site when they're using it.

This Cookie does not infringe upon your privacy in any way whatsoever, but it helps us to improve the way our website works and helps us to provide you with a pleasant experience when you browse our site.

Continuing to use Professor Andrew Eder's website implies acceptance of this Cookie Policy.

